Sisters in the spotlight

Big sisters Lindsay MacDonald and Seanna Ewasiuk lead their little sisters, Madison MacDonald and Ashton Ewasiuk, through the fancy footwork of the Sister Dance at Sunday's Metelytsia Ukrainian Dance Club Spring Concert. The four worked on choreography and routines with Brandi Yarmuch to achieve a delightful crowd-pleaser with a touch of spring. More Concert coverage on Page 5.

NLLS offers space for cultural venue

By VICKI BROOKER

Seldom-used space at the Northern Lights Library System Headquarters could become the answer to Elk Point's needs for a performing arts and cultural activities venue.

Representatives of the Town of Elk Point, County of St. Paul, Elk Point Community Choir, Elk Point Ukrainian Dance Club, Elk Point Gymnastics Club and other organizations met Tuesday night with MLA Ray Danyluk, Alberta Lotteries representative Neil Barber and Northern Lights board chair Mark Oberg to discuss the possibility of turning the cavernous warehouse space of the former Pan Canadian building into a cultural centre.

Danyluk said the building was offered first for sale, then for community use when Pan Canadian changed their operations in the area. A society formed at that time tried to acquire the building, as did the Town of Elk Point and other groups. Northern Lights had outgrown their original headquarters in downtown Elk Point, and "Elk Point felt it was very important to keep the System here, and offered them this building," Danyluk said.

At the time, he added, there was a discussion of how much space Northern Lights needed. "In their future forecasting, they really didn't know what space would be necessary, but in their requirements, they said they needed it all."

The building went to the provincial government for $1 and a sizeable tax receipt, and the province transferred the property to Northern Lights. At that point, Danyluk said, "the issue died."

Recently, Northern Lights "reevaluated the necessity to have [the warehouse] part, and the cost of utilities outweighed their need." The Northern Lights board met with community representatives "to discuss the possibility and palatability of sharing it."

The concept of turning the space into a cultural facility and possibly a museum, led to meetings, tours and discussions of ways Northern Lights could work with the community to accomplish the change.

Oberg read a resolution passed at the February 26 Northern Lights meeting, stating that the Northern Lights board would sell their surplus space to the community groups for $1, and enter into an agreement, which was "very much wide open."

"This facility would be wonderful. Let's work together, do casinos or whatever it takes to get it going."

Elk Point celebrates the community's countless volunteers

By VICKI BROOKER

"What better way to celebrate Volunteer Week than to thank our volunteers?" asked FCSS director Deanna Easthope as she welcomed everyone to Wednesday evening's Volunteer Week celebration at Elk Point Seniors' Recreation Centre and read a poem entitled, "Each Life Affects Another."

Town councillor Thomas Kondla said his view of volunteering "has changed over the years, as I became a part of the community. My father was a big volunteer at the arena, and a big part of the effort to get artificial ice and install the plastic boards." Kondla himself has served on the Ag Society executive, with his union at work and on the FCSS Board, and feels, "a community can't possibly be a community without a volunteer base."

"A volunteer, to me, means everybody who lives in town," Mayor Parrish Tung added. "You volunteer to be a part of the community, whether you're involved in the betterment of the town or a special interest, whether you do a huge part or a small part to make others' lives much better. Just by being here, you volunteer to give these people support."

"I see a lot of passion for other people in this room," Kondla said. He explained about the volunteer SEED: "Something Extra Every Day," and urged everyone to "spread those SEEDs throughout the community."

Kondla introduced singer, songwriter and speaker Marilyn Rose.

"Volunteers are awesome at giving, but not as great at receiving," Rose said. "They tend to step back and not take credit for all they do." She added, "volunteers truly are the backbone of the community, and we sometimes underestimate their value. Just think, if every person planted a seed every day, what a great world this would be. There is goodness in every-

Cultural centre concept well received

"There needed to be some sort of decision. Was the community interested or against the idea?" Danyluk said.

"It's important that the community be involved in the discussion. We need to talk in terms of who's going to own it, maintain it and run it. Is there a need for its usage, and is there going to be money to renovate it?"

He noted that Northern Lights needs to use the facility on an occasional basis, free of charge, for large meetings and conferences.

The challenges, Danyluk said, are first to determine if this space is necessary and how it would affect other facilities in the community, and second, how to achieve the objective of renovating it for use. He noted that Community Facility Enhancement Program grants of $125,000 are available, as are $75,000 Community Initiatives Program grants.

"There was legacy funding, but it's not there right now," he added. "If part of it is a museum, some Alberta Historic Resources funding might be available."

Danyluk noted that there is "one other major avenue. Lotteries money is earmarked for larger projects which are acceptable to the Minister. Whatever funding you get, will be 50-50," he noted, adding that the value of donated labor can be figured into the equation.

Barber offered a ray of hope.

"We recently looked at our guidelines for the next grant cycle. Previously we didn't allow the value of the building to be included, but now, if the title is changed, its actual value can be used [in the matching portion]."

"Is it necessary? That goes without saying," said Don Conrad from the Elk Point Community Choir, who feels the facility should enhance the community, rather than competing with community halls. "I feel very strongly this structure should be a cultural facility. There is not one facility here that has a stage. We had access to the school at one time, but we can no longer utilize it. The Elks have been wonderful, but their facility is not set up [for dinner theatre], it becomes very complicated."

Conrad noted that "this community can attract cultural events," with 1600 people attending this year's dinner theatre performances. "We want to continue to keep it here. We do not want Elk Point to lose this."

The Choir needs a stage, washrooms and change rooms, "and would appreciate having input on the stage design." He felt ownership would best be placed in the community, with governance under a fine arts council.

Once the facility became operational, "I hope it would be self-sufficient, with income generated by the functions it would house. Having operated for 13 years as chair of the theatrical group, I know the community would support it."

"This facility would be wonderful," Conrad concluded. "Let's work together, do casinos or whatever it takes to get it going."

Danyluk noted that the Northern Lights Board, "wants stability, the turnover should be with the municipality involved, and if it were to be no longer used for the purpose intended, it would revert back to Northern Lights."

Harvey Aarbo was "glad to hear what Don was saying. Two or three years ago, Elk Point Cultural Society was formed and in place, and this building was part of the plan. If some of these people want to form a board, we can turn it over to them."

Mayor Parrish Tung said the Town of Elk Point "in principle, really supports this."

but asked, "where would the money come from? There's a difference between supporting and writing a cheque." The Town would be "willing to help in any way we can" in other ways, as they do with other facilities in the community.

County of St. Paul Deputy Reeve Glen Ockerman said, "at some level, the County would be involved. We will see what our role would be. Hopefully we can assist."

"Let me pose the question," Danyluk said. Is there any flavor of acceptance of this project?" He surveyed the sea of raised hands and added, "it's a unanimous decision, we should look at it."

Gayle Leaf of the Elk Point Gymnastics and Dance Society outlined needs for a spring floor and storage. Millie Orr added that the Ukrainian Dance Club was in a similar situation and "would be very interested."

The Elks might be impacted by the new facility, but member Lawrence Pidluzny felt they could cope.

"Where do we go from here?" Danyluk said, asking for a volunteer to head the interim planning committee.

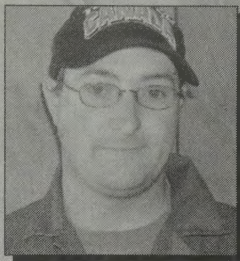

Don Conrad agreed to take that position, and will assemble a group of interested people, contact the municipalities to set up a meeting, with assistance from Danyluk's office.

"This is great," Barber said. This is what Alberta Lotteries is all about." He suggested a Lotteries-funded feasibility study to give a clear picture of costs to renovate and operate.

"Our first step is to do some groundwork," Conrad said. "We'll form a list of groups interested and get this committee going. We want to move ahead with this, but we have to set our direction first."

Young talent explodes in Elk Point

By Vicki Brooker
Review Staff

Some of northeast Alberta's best young talent is off to perform at Klondike Days after an amazing Talent Explosion in Elk Point on Saturday night, hosted by F. G. Miller High School Class of 2005.

A small girl with a big voice, six-year-old Emily Thompson opened the show with Dolly Parton's "Coat of Many Colours" in a special guest performance.

Eleven individuals and groups in the nine to 12 age group were on the program for the Junior competition. Brittini Gill wowed the judges with Carolyn Dawn Johnson's "Die of a Broken Heart" to win first place, with second going to BJ Bailey and his rocking rendition of "Summertime Blues." Honorable mentions went to Katelyn Fontaine, with a vocal solo, "It's a Most Unusual Day," and BJ Bailey with a dance routine.

Colin Lajoie on violin, The Dual Avrils with a vocal duet, Jodi Kalynchuk on violin, instrumentalists Patrick Daniel, the Dueling Baders and Franco DuPreez, dancer Tanisha Krider and vocal duo, The Rains Singers, also were on the Junior program.

Judges Terry Buchkowsky, Kathleen MacMurray and Linda Nichols had an even more challenging task before them in the Youth category, for performers 13 to 21 years, as 18 acts took the stage.

Emily Mosley was backed up by brother Eric on guitar and brand new drummer Alex Buck in Neil Young's "Rockin' in the Free World."

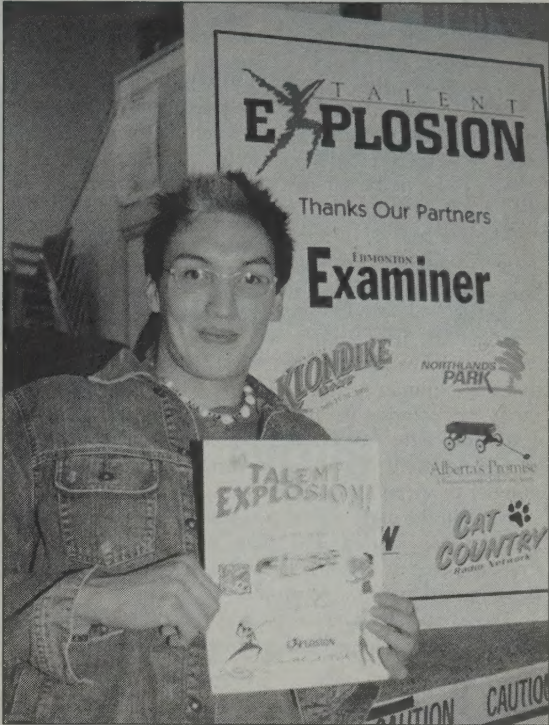

Versatile singer, songwriter and musician Corbin Poitras came on stage twice, with a breathtaking drum solo and then with a vocal solo, and took first place. An energetic and entertaining young group from St. Paul, "Acclaimed Candid," consisting of Ky Babyn, Jonathan Sieben, Corey Lundy, Dustin Williams, Ryan Pruneau, with Daniel Kitt as sound tech, cavorted their way into second spot. "Frail Mind," featuring Addison Bartholomew, Brian Chamberland, Stefan Lamoreux and Brandon Holthe, earned an honorable mention with their showmanship and talent.

Colin Ference was another local performer, with an awe-inspiring guitar solo, while Tyson Slywka joined Bartholomew and Ference in duets. Emily Mosley and Company brought a taste of classic rock to the event.

The show was produced by Dee Pankiw on behalf of Lakeland College Scholarships and Awards, which will share the proceeds of the show with the Class of 2005. Chris Gill of K-Rock, Cold Lake was the MC.

Jodi Kalynchuk, who dedicated her violin solo, "Red Wing" to her late Gido, was one of the local performers in the Junior category.

Corbin Poitras is a talented young musician, who will be proud to showcase his talents at Klondike Days.

Together, groups can move mountains

Cooperation is a significant driving force. One organization on its own might find a major project too overwhelming and daunting to tackle on its own, but when that organization finds common ground with other groups, there is no end to what they will try and what they will accomplish, if they hang in for the long haul.

The concept of turning the Northern Lights Library System's unneeded space into a cultural centre stands an excellent chance of becoming reality. The momentum to reach the goal would come from many organizations - not only the user groups who view it as their dream facility. The Northern Lights board, who can clearly see that the community's need for the space is greater than theirs, are offering the building for a token sum and the cultural society formed a few years ago with a similar project in mind is willing to turn over their societies number to speed up the process.

Back in the early 1990s, a community cultural centre project was stalled and then discarded, when the immense cost of building caused some groups to rethink their commitment to the project.

This time, if everyone stays on track and pulls together, a completed cultural centre is straight ahead.

Way Back When

Snow piles up, school funds shrink

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF APRIL 26 IN...

1985

We thought it was spring, until the worst April blizzard in 30 years left vehicles stranded in huge drifts and caused a number of cancellations. A new record of 43 members and guests were on hand for the Chamber of Commerce meeting, with six of them being guest speakers with information on a variety of topics.

1990

All systems were go for Mural Park, after a revamped and revised agreement was approved by both the Town of Elk Point and the Elk Point Historical Society for the development, almost three years after the development permit was issued. Severe cuts to the County of St. Paul's educational expenditures in the 1990-91 budget brought a record attendance to the F. G. Miller Parent - Teacher Association meeting to question a total of $191,000 drop in proposed expenditures.

1995

The Chamber planned to set up a meeting between the Town, Chamber and community, plus persons who were knowledgeable about health care and its delivery, who would become a steering committee for a future community health council. A delegation of historians and community leaders urged residents of north east Alberta to lobby for the extension of the Trans Canada Trail into the region.

2000

Students were in the spotlight at Elk Point Elementary School as they presented four plays at their annual Drama Night. Ranger Oil hoped to extend their oilpatch driving hours, with few concerns voiced at an open house on the proposal.

The Elk Point Review publishes a variety of opinions as a contribution to debate on matters of public concern. Unsigned editorials express the view of this newspaper's editorial board which includes the Publisher and the Editor. Signed pieces express the view of the individual writer.

GUEST COLUMN

Volunteers, attitude and action

Last week was National Volunteer Week. It was a time for all of us to recognize and thank all our volunteers. There is so much that volunteers do that it is easy to overlook their value. Our only hope is that we don't stop appreciating our volunteers, not just during volunteer week but throughout the whole year. Volunteers do make a difference. Let us think about it.

deanna
from the FCSS desk

There is a poem by Joseph Malins with the title, "A Fence or an Ambulance" which makes a lot of sense. The poem basically talks about people falling off a dangerous cliff. People get together and talk about what they should do. One group of people lobby for money to buy an ambulance so they could care for people who fall off the cliff. This is a great thing to do and needed by those who are injured. Another group of people lobby about the importance of putting a fence around the edge of the cliff. This is also a great thing to do as it would prevent people from falling off the cliff in the first place.

The poem not only talks about the two different viewpoints, it mentions the caring and importance of both viewpoints. In other words, both solutions are needed. Hopefully, if support was given to both, more money on the prevention side (a fence around the cliff), would eventually lessen the money needed to be spent in recovery (an ambulance at the bottom of the cliff).

Another thought is that the price of a fence is less than the price of an ambulance. So really if we were looking for the best price for "your buck," it would have to be the prevention side.

So how does this poem relate to volunteers, attitude and action? Quite simply, we need programs to rescue, assist and help people in need. But we also need something to enhance what is good in the environment that people live in so that they stay well and happy. This is where volunteers come in. It is the volunteers who have the vision of what is needed. With their attitude of believing something can be done if they get in there and do it, they take action and it happens. It does not cost the receiver anything. The cost of what volunteers do is picked up by the volunteer themselves in their time, sharing of talents and their energy. This is not measured or calculated by the volunteer. In other words, volunteers do cost less than the price of "programs" that try to fix a problem.

Besides, volunteers are our neighbors, our friends and our families. And let me say something else about volunteers. They do it because they love what they do on a volunteer basis. You know what? They wouldn't do it if they didn't!

The next question: what is the price of people volunteering? Let me suggest that it is not measurable because it is so valuable. Do you all remember Melvin McGinnis and Sid Holthe? Melvin helped raise funds to buy equipment for the hospital as well as visiting patients. Sid had a vision for anything he thought was worthwhile. The Seniors Recreation centre and Royal Canadian Legion Branch #151 certainly felt his influence. Melvin and Sid both believed what they did would make a difference, so they did it.

I could give many more examples, but I just wanted to make the point that it is the people who have, are and will make the difference in our community. Volunteers have an action attitude. Thus, to all our volunteers, past, present and in the future, please accept our community's heartfelt thanks. Our community is a great place to live in because of you!

Metelytsia presents spring concert

The 30 dancers of Elk Point's Metelytsia Dance Club and their instructor Cheryl Robertson displayed another season's accomplishments at Sunday's Spring Concert.

The entire company opened the show with the traditional welcome dance, Pryvit. Group 3B showed endless energy in a lively Tropianka, followed by 3A with their quick-stepping Hutzulka. The Group 4 seniors added the high steps of their Volynsky Tanets.

Taylor Cochrane and Leigha Bishop performed a Bukovynian Medley, while Robertson, as Baba, planted her garden, with first-year dancer Kira Brunner coming along to harvest the carrots.

Group 2 displayed their skills in a lively Mini Hopak, followed by Group 3B with the graceful Shawl Dance. Five feisty adult dancers performed the complex routines of the Poltava, followed up by Group 3A with a Kozachok Podilskyj.

A sister dance by Lindsay and Madison MacDonald, Seanna and Ashton Ewasiuk was followed by a Poltava by Kelsey Lindquist and Kelsey Vinge. Group 4 wound up their performance with the beautiful Hopak.

All groups combined to tell the story of "The Princess and the Magic Boots," a tale of deceit, jealousy, laughter and love as a great finale to the show.

APRIL 24 TO 30, 2005

Administrative Professionals Week

There are very few organizations or firms that do not have a secretary whose function it is to welcome, in person or by telephone, the many clients requesting speedy services and/or quality products. Secretarial work requires a high degree of flexibility and adaptability to many environments. It does not matter where firms and businesses are situated; they all require the services of a secretary, an assistant, and a right hand...

From April 24 to 30, 2005, Administrative Professionals Week will provide the perfect opportunity to celebrate and appreciate the devotion of these employees who often facilitate the daily tasks of other employees. Secretaries are often the first contact, the first connection someone makes with a firm or an organization. Employers are encouraged to pay particular attention to these assistants who are so important for their public images.

Secretarial work has undergone major changes and has evolved tremendously in the past fifteen years. Today's secretaries now have the opportunity to specialize, be it as a medical secretary, administrative assistant and many other titles and responsibilities. They must constantly adapt to changes within their own organization as well as new and ever changing technology. They must also possess many competences and skills and the list grows longer every year: adaptability, expertise in both verbal and written communication, computer knowledge, accounting and management.

Let's use this week dedicated to these professionals to show our appreciation and thank them for their dedication and the importance and quality of the work they perform day in and day out.

Administrative Professionals Week is the perfect occasion to let everyone know how much I value you both.

Sox season starts Sunday with a double header

By DOUG BASSETT
Review Sports

Hey - it's a great day for baseball, let's play two. Let's hope this great weather hangs in there.

This coming Sunday,

May 1, the Sox are back, playing their season opener, a double header against Westlock, 12 noon at Bassett Field. There's a whole new crop of rookies playing this year, who may lack some skills and experience, but certainly aren't short on desire. Only four veterans returning, Nicky "fish" Myshaniuk, Lee "Bobo" Letestu and Travis "track star" Lindquist and Corbin Poitras. And some other familiar faces that we all know, new head coach Mark "the marksman" Letestu, and batting coach Joel "lucky" Leckie, will be there.

Football News

The Bengals are back and ready to attack. This past weekend the St. Paul Senior Lions and Bantam Bengals sent players to tryouts for the All Star North Team at Foote Field in Edmonton. Four Bantam Bengal players from the Elk Point area were selected to go, Adam Hymanyk, Randy Merkel, Derek Wruth and Tyson Proski. Unfortunately Tyson broke his arm snowboarding last month and was unable to attend. Good luck to the rest of the boys.

Birdie Watch

Hey, maybe the USA does have the Williams sisters in tennis, but check this out. Right here in Elk Point we have two sisters who are doing just great in Badminton. Congratulations to Stephanie and Marcy Ference who won Gold and Silver respectively in Junior Girls Singles Badminton at the S.P.A.A. County Cup and will now advance to Zones in Lloydminster on Thursday.

And now for K. A. Campbell's quote of the week. A reporter once informed Babe Ruth that his salary was higher than that of the President of the United States, Herbert Hoover. "I know," retorted Babe, "but I had a better year than Hoover." Last week's answer to "I was in the bar and they asked Pulford to leave so they could start 'Happy Hour'." - NHL executive.

Firefighters host gala ball

By Vicki Brooker
Review Staff

Elk Point Volunteer Firefighters Association hosted a very successful Firefighters' Ball on Saturday evening, with an excellent crowd at the Elks Hall which was swagged with glimmering lights and decorated with balloon bouquets and twig trees for the occasion.

The entire north side of the hall was lined with donated items destined for the silent auction as an additional fundraiser.

MC Robert Smith introduced MLA Ray Danyluk, who said, "this is a fundraiser for a great cause. Every dollar raised on the silent auction is going to be matched."

Danyluk noted that in Elk Point, there is a unique situation, with the firefighters caring for the safety of the community, surrounding rural areas and other nearby communities.

County councillor Glenn Ockerman brought greetings from the County and called the firefighters "a great bunch of guys. When things aren't the best, they're always there for us."

Mayor Parrish Tung thanked "the unsung heroes who made tonight possible" and who are a vital part of "a safe, caring community."

Fire Chief Ken Palamarek gave a brief history of the department and of the community's fire protection equipment over the years.

Mark Gormley of Elk Point Co-op presented a $500 donation from Co-op staff in memory of Greg Muzyka, a staff member from 1988-ti 1998, who was part of the fire department.

Firefighter Gary Brown wound up the program with some thought-provoking comments on the life of a firefighter.

Encouragement for the Firefighters' community service vehicle project came in the form of a donation from Elk Point Co-op staff, above, which was presented to fire chief Ken Palamarek by Mark Gormley.

At right, MLA Ray Danyluk expressed gratitude to the firefighters from all area residents.

Celebrating Elk Point's volunteers body's heart, but not everybody knows how to access it. As volunteers, you set the example."

Rose started off the musical portion of her program with a song she wrote for an ABC Head Start program volunteer appreciation event, "In The Silence of the Heart," and also performed several other thought-provoking numbers.

"It's really not about entertainment, but inspiration. I want to inspire people to be the best they can be."

Easthope and Kondla teamed up with Tung to present awards to volunteers nominated by the community's clubs and organizations. "It was hard for some groups to only give one name," Easthope commented.

Recipients included Fred Lambright (Elk Point Emergency Services), Doug Bassett (Arena Operating Committee), Gabe Bayduza (Friends of the Library), Marvin Bjornstad (Elk Point Historical Society and Riverland Recreational Trail Society), Don Conrad (Elk Point Choral Society), Lorraine Danyluk (Elk Point 4-H Multi Club), all members of the Elk Point Volunteer Firefighters, Grace Kinjerski (Elk Point Palliative Care), Daytime Quilters, represented by Iryne Buck (Elk Point Further Education), Deanna Easthope (Canada Day Committee), Susan Frisby (Soccer Club), Rob Holliday (Friends of the Forts), Marshall Kachmar (Elk Point and District Lions), Edie Lowry (Elk Point Minor Hockey), Joep Langejans and Jim MacLellan (church congregations), Cheri Lindquist (Ukrainian Dance Club), Jean McGinnis (Red Cross), Margaret Modin (Pioneer Circle), Marshall Myshaniuk (Minor Ball), Elsie Oryschuk (Health Unit), Al Pankiw (Oilmen's Association), Doris Pindroch (Community Lions), Curtis Porcina (Curling Club), Dale Rinas (TrailRiders Snowmobile Club), Jean Russell (Legion), Bill Schuhmacher (Elks), Ed Smith (Auto Club), Sandy Smith (Chamber of Commerce), Tracy Vogel (Playschool), Margaret White (Guides), Laverne Wilson (Library Board), Leanne Wozniak (Figure Skating Club). Laverne Wilson won the draw for a trip to the Vitalize volunteer conference in Calgary, sponsored by the Town of Elk Point.

Dwayne Odgaard accepted the corporate volunteer award on behalf of Elk Point Co-op.

Mona McGinnis recognized the volunteers who assist with Health Unit programs: Elsie Oryschuk, Erna Holliday, Debbie Lawrence, Peggy Maas, Donna Babcock, Marg Stone, Amelia Bowen, Ann Uchman, Darlene Sereda, Karon

Hanson, Lena Step, Lois Sharek, Lucille Smith and Faye Smith. She commented that "behind every organization, there are a number of volunteers who keep the wheels turning."

In closing, Kondla spoke about the Community Foundation, which hopes to do fundraising without conflicting with groups, with the aim of "helping Elk Point organizations become more self-sufficient."

Constituents lunch with MLA

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Constituents didn't have to go far from home to have lunch with MLA Ray Danyluk, who joined them at the Empress last Friday to discuss a variety of concerns.

This was the first Elk Point stop since the change in meeting formal, which sees the MLA hold a breakfast meeting in a larger centre, in Friday's case, St. Paul, and then lunch and coffee meetings in smaller communities, Elk Point and Glendon. "I think it works out better," Danyluk said.

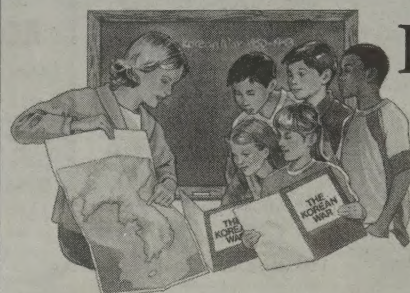

Much of the last three-and-a-half or four months has been spent working on the provincial budget, Danyluk says, "and for the most part, it's very positive," with more funding for seniors, AISH and municipal affairs. One of the major challenges, especially with transportation, is "finding enough workforce to do the work. It's a tough situation. We have enough money in place, but without enough people to do the work, the cost of doing a project goes up."

Danyluk was recently appointed chair of the Northern Alberta Development Council, and says his new role is "working very well." He recently toured northern Alberta and reported his findings to Premier Klein.

"Elk Point was asked to submit their priority list for infrastructure," he noted. "You will get the opportunity to revisit the list and make sure your priorities are right."

When questioned on government plans to rebuild the road to Fishing Lake, Danyluk said it had been designated for rebuilding, "but the community decided they wanted to go to Bonnyville. We couldn't convince them any different." Now the community has realized that emergency services come from Elk Point, they are rethinking the need to have the road upgraded. Upkeep of the road from Whitney Lake corner to Frog Lake store is the County's responsibility, and Danyluk says, "they do get a road grant."
